

Impact Report

Creating life-changing entrepreneurial experiences for millions of people

We believe entrepreneurship can improve lives, build economies and expand human welfare

Overview

This report outlines the impact of Global Entrepreneurship Week, a worldwide initiative exposing millions of young people to life-changing entrepreneurial experiences.

In the span of two short years, Global Entrepreneurship Week has inspired more than 10 million people in 102 countries to unleash their ideas. It has touched aspiring entrepreneurs from major cities to remote villages.

What is GEW?

Global Entrepreneurship Week exposes millions of young people to life-changing entrepreneurial experiences.

GEW is an initiative to inspire young people to embrace innovation, imagination and creativity. Countries across six continents come together to connect young people everywhere through local, national and global activities designed to help them explore their potential as self-starters and innovators.

GEW is a movement around a new generation unleashing their ideas to seek out better ways of doing things.

Through developing young people's knowledge, skills and networks, they can grow innovative, sustainable enterprises, having a positive impact on their lives, their families and communities.

JORDAN | Amman

Reid Hoffman, the founder and CEO of LinkedIn and Joi Ito, a world activist, entrepreneur and Twitter adviser, opened up the Week by sharing their success stories with their audience. The evening focused on the importance of protecting intellectual property rights and entrepreneurship experiences that have the potential to boost its leadership in the field of entrepreneurship at the regional level.

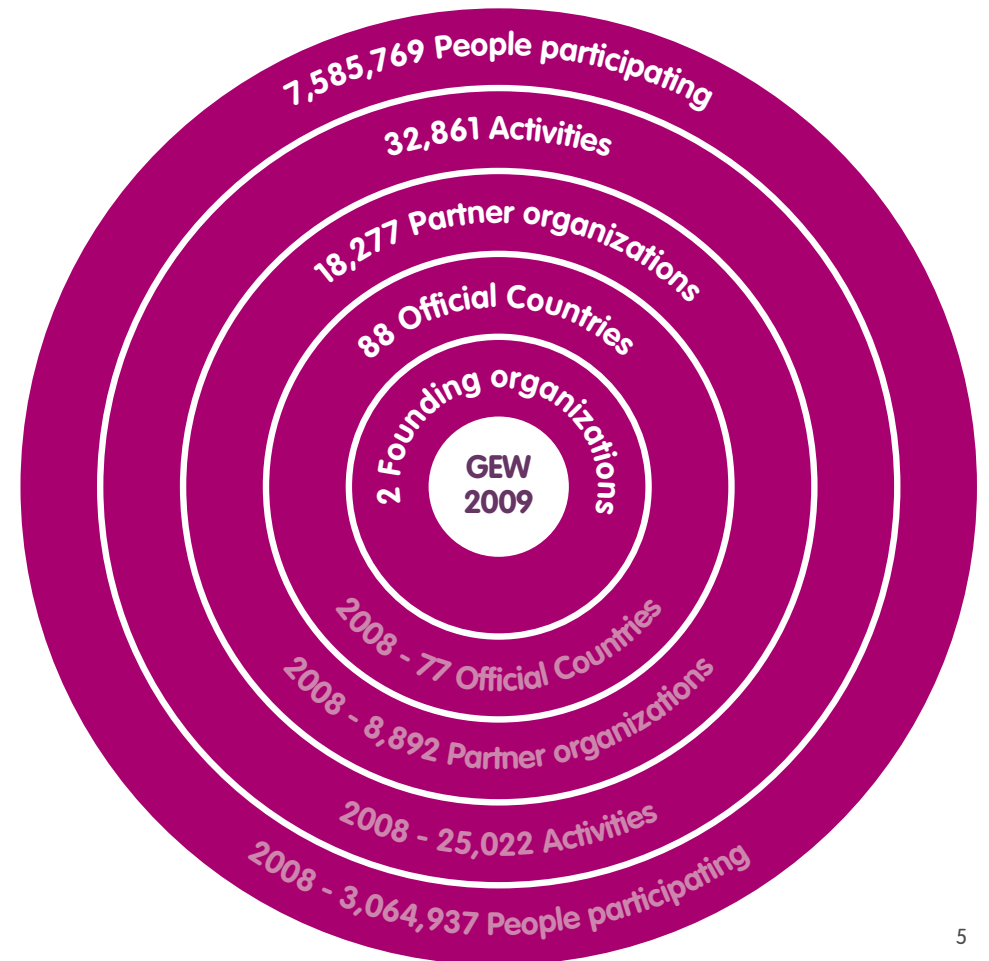

We believe a global entrepreneurial movement is stronger than the sum of any national efforts

We believe entrepreneurs can build a stronger world

Core Metrics

GEW is driven by a global network of entrepreneurial champions. Entrepreneurs, experts, policy-makers, education practitioners and politicians all come together to inspire the next generation of entrepreneurs. Since its inception in 2008, GEW has seen 10,650,733 attendees at 57,883 events.

In the space of one year, GEW has grown massively...

The Legacy

While Global Entrepreneurship Week aims to open the minds of young people, it also engaged policymakers and other influential thought leaders. Local elected officials, governors, ministers, celebrity entrepreneurs and heads of state from around the world took up the call to action and lent their voice to help expand entrepreneurship everywhere.

RUSSIA | Moscow

The "Role of Microfinance in Overcoming the Financial Economic Crisis Conference" featured speeches from Nobel Prize Winner Muhammad Yunus and Princess Maxima of the Netherlands, with experts from a variety of sectors involved in entrepreneurship in Russia working together to discuss strategies and solutions.

Global Leaders

The scale and quality of the Week has attracted the support of Presidents and Prime Ministers in 16 countries, as well as wider political support gained in 54 countries.

Including: US Secretary of State, Hillary Clinton; HRH Prince of Wales; The King of Morocco; Her Royal Highness Princess Maxima of the Netherlands; President of the Republic of France, Nicolas Sarkozy; Israeli Prime Minister, Benjamin Netanyahu; Australian Prime Minister, Kevin Rudd; UK Prime Minister Gordon Brown and many more.

"The Obama Administration is dedicated to boosting entrepreneurship both in the United States and other countries, where talent is widespread, but opportunity often is not... We can't afford to leave out anyone who has an idea, a dream, an invention or innovation, and the desire to work hard to make that a reality... Global Entrepreneurship Week reflects a sense of collective responsibility to encourage young minds to pursue fresh ideas and unleash the full range of human potential."

Secretary of State Hillary Rodham Clinton, United States

"Today marks the beginning of Global Entrepreneurship Week... There are concrete things that the Government will advance in the economic field in order to guarantee that we maintain our qualitative edge, innovation, initiative, which are, ultimately, the key to Israel's economic advantage. Greetings to all the entrepreneurs and good luck!"

Prime Minister Benjamin Netanyahu, Israel

"At this time of unprecedented global change, I congratulate everyone involved in Global Entrepreneurship Week for encouraging people and countries to work together to find new ways to succeed."

Prime Minister Gordon Brown, United Kingdom

“Global Entrepreneurship Week 2009 is an international celebration to inspire, connect, mentor and engage the next generation of entrepreneurs... Australia must nurture the entrepreneurial spirit of our young people to ensure our nation prospers well into the future... I encourage all young people to believe in their ideas, to work hard to achieve them, to be enterprising and have a positive vision for the future.”

Prime Minister Kevin Rudd, Australia

“Entrepreneurship is extremely important. If New Zealand is going to do well and be successful, in the end we’re going to create good ideas and the brainpower and the enthusiasm of entrepreneurs in New Zealand to building a much stronger country. It’s good that this is a global challenge and a global Week... I can’t tell you what the business model of the future looks like, but it will almost certainly involve the cooperation of New Zealand entrepreneurs with companies overseas.”

Prime Minister John Key, New Zealand

“Entrepreneurs are the engine of job creation... generating millions of good jobs. Many begin with nothing more than a good idea, and translate new products and services into vibrant businesses. To secure our Nation’s future prosperity, we must ensure that our entrepreneurs have the tools they need to survive and thrive.”

President Barack Obama, United States, in his official proclamation for a national Entrepreneurship Week

The Activities

Since its creation in 2008, more than 60,000 Global Entrepreneurship Week events have taken place.

Host organizations in 88 different countries continue to build their campaigns through local, national and global activities – from online to face-to-face, and from large-scale competitions and events to intimate networking gatherings. The unifying factor of embracing entrepreneurial behavior is at the heart of every activity in every country.

In addition to individual country activity, in 2009 Official GEW Activities were developed and promoted to all countries to enable national campaigns to engage globally across borders and to inspire new ideas at the intersection of cultures.

- The Global Cleantech Open Ideas Competition combed the world for the best green innovators.

The winner of the Clean Tech Open Ideas Competition was Replenish Energy from Puerto Rico, a company that has the capacity to provide a renewable, carbon-negative fuel in the form of microalgae, to either substitute or blend with fuel oil or diesel at well below current petroleum prices.

This idea was one of seven finalists selected from a global search in 28 countries for the best clean technology business ideas. Ideas included everything from revolutionary ways to generate clean energy, to better ways to filter water, to ideas about how governmental policies around climate change can foster new businesses.

The competition culminated in Silicon Valley, USA, where the finalists presented their five-minute pitch in front of a crowd of 3,000 investors, entrepreneurs, sponsoring companies, corporations, members of academia and press. Replenish Energy received more than $100,000 in marketing support, legal advice and conferencing services to help launch their business.

- Mentoring Madness, sponsored by NYSE Euronext, brought advice to aspiring bootstrap entrepreneurs through 763 mentoring activities.

More than 200 university students gathered at the New York Stock Exchange for the launch event of Mentoring Madness, posing their entrepreneurial questions to the panel, headlined by rap artist and serial entrepreneur Snoop Dogg.

The panel also selected the winner of Movers & Changers, a nationwide business plan competition run by mtvU and NYSE Euronext. Three students from Tulane University were awarded $25,000 in startup funds for their venture, WET Tea, which is aimed at raising social awareness, community involvement and monetary support for the preservation and reconstruction of the Gulf Coast Wetlands by selling artisan tea.

- The Global Innovation Tournament challenged nearly 1,000 contestants in 31 countries to come up with innovative ways to make saving money fun.

Following a two week judging period, a prestigious panel of experts from all over the world selected 300 candidates for global judging, before deciding on 22 winners from 12 countries. For each entry, the judges evaluated aspects such as the innovation and novelty of the idea, how fun it was, and whether the team implemented the idea to create a positive impact.

Winners ranged from an Israeli group of students for their "Virtual World, Real Savings" idea, to a "Shop and Save Facebook Application" for a team in Kenya.

- 551 Speednetwork the Globe events connected people to bring ideas to life.

GEW Global Partner, YES for Europe, held a large Speednetwork the Globe event to kick-off their Annual Summit held at the European Parliament in Brussels. Young entrepreneurs came together from across Europe to make connections fast in order to make new contacts and grow their businesses internationally.

TURKEY | Istanbul

"SpeedCity" brought together leading entrepreneurs in Turkey and aspiring young entrepreneurs to build teamwork skills as a real-life pit crew for a Formula One car. Two replica cars were brought in, with each person assigned tasks like changing tires, refueling and drilling. The winning team of students, showed their ability to learn new skills and apply them quickly - even faster than established CEOs of Turkey. The event was preceded by a Speednetwork the Globe session, which allowed the two groups to exchange entrepreneurial ideas and contacts.

More Than Just a Week

GEW is a rallying point for a worldwide movement of entrepreneurial people. It's not just about one week. Through the platform of GEW, existing programs are showcased, new entrepreneurial initiatives are launched, national policies are influenced and entrepreneurial people who got their first inspiration from GEW go on to achieve great things.

SOUTH AFRICA

In South Africa, The University of the Witwatersrand's Wits Business School launched a South Africa Startup Index (SASI) during Global Entrepreneurship Week. One of the main objectives of SASI is to create awareness in the marketplace around innovative South African start-up companies with the potential to compete on the global stage. SASI will operate as a collaboration between academia, private sector institutions and government, and will include academic research around the start-up environment. It will also aim to organize the start-up community in South Africa and facilitate networks with different entrepreneurship support and developmental institutions.

ARGENTINA

Argentina had a law enacted saying the last day of GEW is the Day of the Entrepreneur.

Mildred Talabi, London, England

Brand Piano, an initiative held during GEWUK 2009, helped four fledging London businesses get revitalized, through their program of mentorship and peer-to-peer networking. Mildred Talabi, the 26 year old owner of RawLoveUK and winner of the program, received £1,000 investment to help grow her business, along with ongoing mentoring and support.

"I was able to immediately apply the knowledge I learned to grow my business and increase sales. We've launched a new product which is selling really well, been featured in several media outlets and been shortlisted for the Young Entrepreneurs category in a Lambeth Business Awards."

MALAYSIA

"To help spur entrepreneurship among graduates, we have set up two top business schools under the National High Education Strategic Plan."

YB Dato' Saifuddin Abdullah, current Deputy Minister of Higher Education and the GEW Malaysia Patron

PAKISTAN

"We have introduced and institutionalized the concept of youth-led development in the leading educational and technical institutions of Pakistan. Over 190 youth-led projects have been launched for the first time. Over 500 lead teachers of youth serving institutions were sensitized about the concept of youth social entrepreneurship."

GEW Pakistan

Alfa Demmellash, Jersey City, USA

For Demmellash, Co-founder of Rising Tide Capital, a nonprofit organization based in Jersey City assisting communities to build strong businesses that transform lives, strengthen families and create vibrant, sustainable neighborhoods, GEWUSA helped provide a platform to advance her personal and professional goals. Demmellash was heavily promoted by the GEW Planning Team, with her story told in publications like BusinessWeek, Entrepreneur.com and Inc Magazine. This media attention helped advance the brand of Rising Tide Capital, and position them as a global provider of services.

"There's been a lot of ongoing response and I think what GEW was able to do for us, and why I thought it was more important than ever that we did GEW, was because we all of the sudden had this global audience. Our Web traffic shot up enormously and we're getting people contacting us from around the world."

Who is GEW?

Founders

Kauffman Foundation

The vision of the Kauffman Foundation is to foster a society of economically independent individuals who are engaged citizens, contributing to the improvement of their communities. We work to catalyze an entrepreneurial society in which job creation, innovation, and the economy flourish. We work with leading educators, researchers, and other partners to further understanding of the powerful economic impact of entrepreneurship, to train the nation's next generation of entrepreneurial leaders, to develop and disseminate proven programs that enhance entrepreneurial skills and abilities, and to improve the environment in which entrepreneurs start and grow businesses.

Enterprise UK

Enterprise UK was founded in 2004 by the British Chamber of Commerce, the Confederation of British Industry, the Institute of Directors and the Federation of Small Businesses, funded mostly by the Department for Business, Innovation & Skills. We started our work with young people under a campaign called Make Your Mark that encouraged enterprising activity amongst 14 – 30 year olds. That campaign was so successful that we wanted to reach out to new people of all ages and backgrounds, fresh thinkers who spot opportunities, apply entrepreneurial talents and overcome the obstacles to make ideas happen. And we have arranged these programs under a new brand – Enterprise UK.

USA | Kansas City

The Global Student Entrepreneur Awards brought student entrepreneurs from 27 countries to Kansas City, Missouri, to compete for $150,000 in cash and donated services. The grand prize went to 24-year-old Milun Tesovic, who developed MetroLyrics, the most popular music lyrics site in the world.

Countries

Eighty-eight countries hosted Global Entrepreneurship Week in 2009, each running a campaign tailored to the audience and entrepreneurial climate in their country. Several other nations participated informally through a small collection of standalone activities.

Within each country was a Host organization, responsible for catalyzing a national network of partners to organize events and run competitions. The campaigns for the countries were as diverse as those who participated – with local entrepreneurs and themes highlighted in each.

JAPAN | Tokyo

Prime Minister Yukio Hatoyama spoke at Japan's "Entrepreneurial Scene" conference, which highlighted social entrepreneurship and action that government and businesses can take to promote innovation. Topics covered included ways to reduce carbon emissions, what motivates young entrepreneurs and foreign perspectives on Japan's entrepreneurs. Baseball legend Bobby Valentine and creative visionary Patrick Newell were also in attendance, discussing their entrepreneurial success.
